LEAD New York Alumni     Jan 12-19, 2020

Although only 90 miles off the coast of Florida, Cuba will remind you of a simpler time that is a distant memory to American culture.

- A welcoming, unique culture comprised of friendly people with remarkable ingenuity
- Thriving farm-to-table practices and sustainable agriculture including tobacco, fruits and vegetables.
- Simple accommodations with heartfelt service
- Extraordinary history and landscapes
- The staple of Cuban transportation: an astounding number of US-made classic cars circa, 40s and 50s, and the creativity that has kept them running!

Cuba is one of the safest countries in the world, as everything is monitored tightly. Be prepared for slower service due to restrictions on tourist services, different ways of thinking, other standards of time, and digital connection constraints. As in any trip to a foreign country, be refreshed by the differences and surprised by the resourcefulness of this unique culture. This tour is fully escorted by professionals.

Cuba’s agriculture has suffered since the early 90s. The fall of the Soviet Union and other communist countries led to a shortage of seed, fertilizer and other chemicals. By necessity, the development of organic and sustainable agriculture followed. Today, state run operations continue to be secretive, but one gains a good insight of the operations just by driving past them. The farms visited on this tour are small, privately owned farms that provide food and jobs to local people. It is not uncommon to meet a doctor or engineer running or working on a local farm.
Notice: Travel to Cuba requires a visa / tourist card. Trump Tours will assist with this process. At the moment, cost is US $75-85.
Immunizations: Check with your local health professional and / or www.cdc.gov.

Sun, Jan 12, 2020  Fly to Havana

(Planned flight, but subject to change.)
10:05am Depart Newark  United 3742
2:05pm Arrive Havana
$30 baggage fee

Cuba has been closed off to the non-communist world since 1961. In 2016, the first scheduled commercial flight between the US and Havana was an American Airlines flight that landed on November 28, just a few days after Fidel Castro died. There are a selection of flights from the US, and Trump Tours will be happy to assist you with flight reservations. Trump Tours will also provide all information needed to secure your visa (US $75-85) and other necessary paperwork. Be sure to pack some patience in your bag, because the Havana airport is not yet outfitted for multiple airplane arrivals. After exiting baggage claim, you will be transferred, to our Havana hotel. You will be joined by a Cuban tour manager as well as a Trump Tours tour manager. The hotel has a resort feel with large swimming pool, tennis, bar, spa, gym, several restaurants and nightly entertainment. Walking tour of Old Havana, a UNESCO world heritage site, located within the old city walls. Havana was founded in 1519 by the Spanish who preferred a protected natural harbor to anchor their galleons between the Olde and New World. Havana—and the rest of Cuba—is still caught in that juxtaposition. See the San Cristobal Cathedral, built in 1748, stroll along the narrow, cobblestoned streets passing from plaza to plaza. Even though the area is from colonial times, you will see that many people (said to be about 60,000) live in this area, and there are even some housing projects for the elderly. Buffet dinner at hotel. Sheraton Four Points Havana or similar. (B, D)

Mon, Jan 13, 2020  Havana to Trinidad

People to people focus: Learn about school system and elderly care.

After breakfast, visit a local organoponico, similar to a CSA in the States. This was an answer to the food shortage during the “Difficult Period in the Time of Peace”. It is now a thriving free enterprise that supplies fruits and vegetables to tourist restaurants and the locals. Depart southwards through the island with a stop for lunch. Visit a small scale livestock farm—most likely hogs—that supply a local state owned slaughterhouse. Continue to Trinidad, over 500 years old, known as one of the best preserved colonial towns in the Caribbean. The town’s wealthiest times were in the mid-1800s when Europe had a sweet tooth and the rich soils produced sugar cane for export. Large cobblestones used to weigh down ships during the triangle trade period were left in Trinidad and subsequently used for building streets and structures. Trinidad is also UNESCO world heritage protected; this designation along with investment monies have preserved the 200 year old buildings. The Caribbean whitewash colors of pinks, turquoises, corals, limes and yellows add to the charm and history. Check into your casa particulares (within ten minutes – an uphill walk from the central square) where you will spend the next three nights. A casa particulares is a unique result of home owners being allowed to transform their dwellings into bed and breakfast accommodations. The law limits up to four rooms, so the group might be split amongst a few casas. Each bedroom has its own bathroom, and the hostess

For early risers, travel 15 minutes to a local fishermen’s village to see them return with their catch and then market and sell it directly. A fascinating scene indeed, especially to see the rustic, motorless boats used by the locals. Return to casa for breakfast. Enjoy incredible views of the Sierra del Escambray mountains and the Val de los Ingenios, the valley of the 19th Century sugar mills, traveling by bus to Manaca Iznaga, a sugar estate established in 1750. The building, now housing a restaurant, will give you a taste of how the lords of the estates lived during those times. Also see a sugar press and, for those who wish, a tower to climb for incredible views. Meet local artisans who produce intricate lace tablecloths. Continue to the Mill Valley museum to see equipment used for sugar production in the mid 19th Century. Lunch included. This afternoon visit a local vegetable producer who sells directly to the state—most likely onions, garlic and tomatoes. Step back in time and climb into 40s and 50s era classic cars for a cruise past the local beach with photo ops. Return to Trinidad for rest of afternoon free and dinner on own. Overnight Trinidad casa particular (B, L) where we will assist with oxen working the ground, feeding the livestock, learning about edible beans and discovering local tropical fruits. Lunch at a peaceful lakeside family run restaurant.
